

Ramesh Vs. Prohibition and Excise Superintendent

Ramesh Vs. Prohibition and Excise Superintendent

SooperKanoon Citation : sooperkanoon.com/444233

Court : Andhra Pradesh

Decided On : Nov-26-2004

Reported in : 2005(1)ALD400; 2005(1)ALT401

Judge : L. Narasimha Reddy, J.

Acts : Andhra Pradesh Excise Act, 1968 - Sections 31 and 31(1)

Appeal No. : WP No. 21674 of 2004

Appellant : Ramesh

Respondent : Prohibition and Excise Superintendent

Advocate for Def. : Government Pleader for Prohibition and Excise

Advocate for Pet/Ap. : Vijay Kumar Heroor, Adv.

Judgement :

ORDER

L. Narasimha Reddy, J.

1. Petitioner is a licensee under TFT scheme and he is running a toddy shop at Ekmal of Basheerabad Mandal, Rangareddy District. On 23.9.2004, his shop was inspected by the Excise sub-Inspector and samples were drawn. The preliminary examination of the samples of toddy discloses that it was adulterated with Chloral

Hydrate. A case in COR No. 233 of 2004-05 was registered Under Section 37(a) of the A.P. Excise Act, 1968 (for short 'the Act'). Through order dated 5.11.2004, the respondent suspended the licence of the petitioner. The same is challenged in this writ petition.

2. Sri Vijay Kumar Heroor, learned Counsel for the petitioner, submits that though the suspension is ordered pending enquiry, the respondent has recorded definite finding as to the involvement by the petitioner was violation of conditions and thereby the suspension deserves to be treated as a substantive punishment. He submits that such a measure can be resorted to only after issuance of notice, as contemplated under proviso to Section 31(1) of the Act. He places reliance upon the judgments of this Court in Sree Devi Wines v. The Deputy Commissioner of Excise, Kakinada, 1995 (1) ALD 164 and Sunil v. Assistant Commissioner of Prohibition and Excise/Excise Superintendent, Twin Cities of Hyderabad, Narayanaguda, 1997 (4) ALD 625.

3. Learned Government Pleader, on the other hand, submits that the observation made in the impugned order is only tentative in nature and the question as to whether the petitioner had indulged in acts of adulteration can be decided after conducting an enquiry. She contends that the concluding portion of the order clearly discloses that the suspension was ordered as an interim measure and pending enquiry.

4. Through the impugned order, the respondent suspended the licence of the petitioner. The Act or the Rules made there under do not contain any independent provision dealing with the suspension pending enquiry. Section 31 of the Act empowers the licensing authority to suspend or cancel the licence, if the licensee is found to have violated the provisions of the Act and Rules and the conditions of the licence. The proviso to Sub-section (1) of Section 31 mandates that before the licence is cancelled or suspended, an opportunity of making representation shall be given to the licensee. Suspension referred to in this proviso is invariably the one inflicted as a substantive punishment. Its reference along with 'cancellation' clearly indicates the same.

5. Suspension, as a measure, pending enquiry has always been treated as incidental to the exercise of the power to grant licence. Wherever the suspension is ordered, as a measure, pending enquiry, it is not required to be preceded by a notice. Many a time it may prove to be a step defeating the very basis. If the allegation is that a licensee is indulging in the acts, which are injurious to health or hazardous to general public, permitting such a licensee to carry on such business even after noticing the irregularities may result in serious consequences.

6. It is true that in the judgments relied upon by the learned Counsel, this Court held that if the findings are recorded as final in the orders of suspension, the same need to be treated as a substantive punishment. In this case, though an observation is made as to the complicity of the petitioner, and violation of the provisions of the Act and conditions of licence, the fact that it is resorted to as a measure pending enquiry and in the public interest clears the doubt in this regard. To protect the interests of the petitioner, any observation made in the order as to the complicity of the petitioner can be treated as provisional, which, in turn, shall not have any bearing on the enquiry that would be conducted after issuance of the notice.

7. Hence, the writ petition is disposed of directing that the observation made in the impugned order that the petitioner has indulged in acts of adulteration shall not be treated as final and the question as to whether the petitioner has violated the conditions of licence or indulged in acts of adulteration shall be decided only after considering the explanation which the petitioner may submit in response to the show-cause notice.

8. The impugned order shall be treated as the show-cause notice and it shall be open to the petitioner to submit his explanation within one week from today. The respondent shall pass final orders within four weeks from the date of receipt of the explanation. In case, such a final order is not passed, the suspension of licence shall stand kept in abeyance and it shall be open to the petitioner to carry on business, subject to the other conditions of licence. No order as to costs.